One Hour

Jim was studying round the clock for his final exams. Ben came to Jim's apartment to study with him. At midnight, both were starving, but Jim had been too busy to buy food and it was too late to order pizza. "My roommate Eve always has food," Jim said. "She gets mad when I eat her food, but she's asleep already and I can't concentrate when I'm hungry."

Jim and Ben went into the kitchen and looked in the fridge. Eve had half a loaf of bread and some yogurt there. Jim searched in "Eve's" cupboard and found a jar of peanut butter. "Well, it's better than nothing." He made sandwiches for himself and Ben, using all the bread and most of the peanut butter.

After they finished the sandwiches, they were still hungry, so Ben went back into the kitchen and grabbed some yogurts for both of them. "This yogurt sure tastes funny," Ben said, but he was so hungry he ate it all anyway. Jim didn't get around to eating the yogurt that Ben had brought him.

Eve was a science student. Unbeknownst to Jim and Ben, Eve was conducting an experiment with the yogurt. She had injected a mild toxin into the yogurt containers and was going to feed it to her lab rats the next day to see how it affected their performance in the maze. She didn't realize she had injected more toxin than she intended and so the yogurt was highly toxic. Ben started convulsing and died the next day in the hospital.
